Ecological Networks:

Ecological Networks Mercedes Pascual, Jennifer A. Dunne, 2005-12-22 This book is based on proceedings from a February 2004 Santa Fe Institute workshop Its contributing chapter authors treat the ecology of predator prey interactions and food web theory structure and dynamics joining researchers who also work on complex systems and on large nonlinear networks from the points of view of other sub fields within ecology Food webs play a central role in the debates on the role of complexity in stability persistence and resilience Better empirical data and the exploding interest in the subject of networks across social physical and natural sciences prompted creation of this volume The book explores the boundaries of what is known of the relationship between structure and dynamics in ecological networks and defines directions for future developments in this field

National and Regional Approaches for Ecological Networks in Europe R. H. Jongman, Ib Kristiansen, Council of Europe. Committee for the Activities of the Council of Europe in the field of Biological and Landscape Diversity, 2001-01-01 This report is written within the framework of the Council of Europe s Committee of Experts for the setting up of the Pan European Ecological Network It gives an overview of the concept of the ecological network dealing with nature conservation at national and regional levels In addition it presents the experiments carried out in 17 European countries and highlights the need to put ecological measures into practice by integrating them into planning policies

The Pan-European Ecological Network--taking Stock Marie Bonnin, Council of Europe. Committee of Experts for the Development of the Pan-European Ecological Network, 2007-01-01 The pace of biodiversity decline is quickening worldwide Habitat break up pollution over use of natural areas and the creation of artificial landscapes increase the rate of erosion while reducing species opportunity for migration dispersion and exchange In 1995 when the European Ministers of the Environment met in Sofia they launched the Pan European Biological and Landscape Diversity Strategy so as to strengthen environment and biodiversity conservation policies The setting up of the Pan European Ecological Network covering Eurasia was one of the key steps taken under the Strategy Work has continued on this project and it is now based on the numerous national regional and transregional ecological networks being set up throughout Europe In Kiev in 2003 the Ministers and heads of delegation noted these positive developments expressed firm support for the creation of the Pan European Ecological Network and asked for its constituent parts to be identified and mapped on a pan European scale This book looks at the implementation of this Network in the 55 states concerned It has been written by a team comprising under the aegis of the Council of Europe numerous government experts and specialists dealing with the issue of ecological networks It is intended to reassure Ministers policy makers and scientists that they made the right decision in supporting the creation of the Pan European Ecological Network with a view to re creating a true green infrastructure for Europe

Ecological Networks and Greenways Rob H. G. Jongman, Gloria Pungetti, 2004-07 The establishment of ecological networks in Europe and greenways in America has required some of the most advanced applications of the principles of landscape ecology to land use planning This book provides a thorough overview of recent developments in this emerging field combining theoretical concepts of landscape ecology with the actual practice of landscape planning and management In addition to biological and physical considerations important to biodiversity protection and restoration equal weight is given to cultural and aesthetic issues to illustrate how sympathetic sustainable land use policies can be implemented Examples are given for large scale areas Estonia and Florida as well as regional areas such as Milano Chicago and the Argentinian Yungas This invaluable book will provide a wealth of information for all those concerned with biodiversity conservation through networks and greenways and their relevance to the planning process whether researcher land manager or policy maker

Ecological Networks in the Tropics Wesley Dáttilo,Victor Rico-Gray,2018-02-08 Based on graph theory studies this book seeks to understand how tropical species interact with each other and how these interactions are affected by perturbations in some of the most species rich habitats on earth Due to the great diversity of species and interactions in the tropics this book addresses a wide range of current and future issues with empirical examples and complete revisions on different types of ecological networks from mutualisms to antagonisms The goal of this publication is not to be only for researchers but also for undergraduates in different areas of knowledge and also to serve as a reference text for graduate level courses mainly in the life sciences

General Guidelines for the Development of the Pan-European Ecological Network Council of Europe,2000-01-01 The Pan European Biological and Landscape Diversity Strategy which was endorsed by ministers from 54 countries in the UN ECE region on 25 October 1995 provides for the establishment by 2005 of the Pan European Ecological Network These Guidelines provide a reference document for all those involved in establishing and managing the network The document aims to provide a coherent framework for guiding an array of co operative decentralised measures which aim to ensure the conservation and sustainable use of the ecosystems habitats species and landscapes of European importance

Ecological Networks and Territorial Systems of Ecological Stability László Miklós,Andrea Diviaková,Zita Izakovičová,2018-08-13 This book provides a wealth of information for all those involved in using ecological networks for biodiversity protection and environmental management as well as their significance for planning It describes the concept of ecological networks and presents methods and real world examples of the use of a territorial system of ecological stability TSES in Slovakia at national regional and local levels including the assessment of the significance of biocentres biocorridors and interactive elements Using both a functional model for preserving the living conditions of habitats or preventing their collapse and the connectivity of biotopes in a landscape as an original type of ecological network based on landscape ecological principles TSES represents a modern concept of nature and biodiversity protection based on the principles of protection of the conditions and forms of biota

Theoretical Ecology Kevin S. McCann,Gabriel Gellner,2020-05-11 Theoretical Ecology concepts and applications continues the authoritative and established sequence of theoretical ecology books initiated by Robert M May which helped pave the way for ecology to become a more robust theoretical science encouraging the modern biologist to better understand the mathematics behind their theories This latest instalment builds on the legacy of its predecessors with a completely new set of contributions Rather than placing emphasis on the historical ideas in theoretical ecology the Editors have encouraged each contribution to synthesize historical theoretical ideas within modern frameworks that have emerged in the last 10 20 years e g bridging population interactions to whole food webs describe novel theory that has emerged in the last 20 years from historical empirical areas e g macro ecology and finally to cover the rapidly expanding area of theoretical ecological applications e g disease theory and global change theory The result is a forward looking synthesis that will help guide the field through a further decade of discovery and development It is written for upper level undergraduate students graduate students and researchers seeking synthesis and the state of the art in growing areas of interest in theoretical ecology genetics evolutionary ecology and mathematical biology

The theme of this volume is to discuss the Ecological Networks in an Agricultural World The volume covers important topics such Networking Agroecology Construction and Validation of Food webs using Logic based Machine Learning and Text mining and Eco evolutionary dynamics in agricultural networks Updates and informs the reader on the latest research findings Written by leading experts in the field Highlights areas for future investigation Invading Ecological Networks Cang Hui, David Richardson, 2022-01-13 Proposes new ways of managing ecological invasions by implementing an open adaptive network framework for ecosystem transformation

Quantitative Analysis of Ecological Networks Mark R. T. Dale, Marie-Josée Fortin, 2021-04-15 Network thinking and network analysis are rapidly expanding features of ecological research Network analysis of ecological systems include representations and modelling of the interactions in an ecosystem in which species or factors are joined by pairwise connections This book provides an overview of ecological network analysis including generating processes the relationship between structure and dynamic function and statistics and models for these networks Starting with a general introduction to the composition of networks and their characteristics it includes details on such topics as measures of network complexity applications of spectral graph theory how best to include indirect species interactions and multilayer multiplex and multilevel networks Graduate students and researchers who want to develop and understand ecological networks in their research will find this volume inspiring and helpful Detailed guidance to those already working in network ecology but looking for advice is also included

Connected Lands Filippo Schilleci, Vincenzo Todaro, Francesca Lotta, 2017-04-20 This book explores and outlines the reference theoretical basis of ecological networks within the international debate focusing on how protected areas should no longer be considered as the sum of different components but rather as a network The various European transnational and national models of ecological networks connections are analyzed on the basis of a detailed updated study of relevant documents The complex picture that emerges shows a wide range of reticular ecological models within European plans and programs but also many non integrated experiences The book subsequently examines the regulation of ecological networks connections within planning instruments explaining the critical points and referring to different ecological network models and specific local realities Lastly the book addresses two Italian case studies regarding the different normative and planning frameworks both at a national and regional level and demonstrating not only how ecological networks connections can be structured within plans but also how these networks connections represent the core element of territory development and preservation As such it provides an essential tool for containing habitat fragmentation offering a new perspective that integrates theoretical approaches and methods with planning models and the lessons learned from local applications Naturopa ,2004 Environmental
