Changing The River:

Quickly Changing River Meena Alexander, 2008-01-09 Recipient 2008 Guggenheim Fellowship With her strong voice and precise language Meena Alexander has crafted this visceral worldly collection of poems The experience she brings to the reader is sensual in many senses of the word as she invokes bright colors sounds smells and feelings Her use of vivid imagery from the natural world birds lilies horses up against that from the world of humans oppression slavery and violence ties her work to the earth even as she works a few mystical poetic transformations In Alexander s world the songs of a bird can become the voice of a girl in a caf and the red juice of mulberries can be as shocking as blood When she focuses her attention on the cloth of a girl s sari the material of a woman s life or the blood in her veins she speaks to the particular experience of women in the world The women are vividly present sometimes they are hidden or veiled juxtaposed with open gardens in full bloom It is difficult not to come away from Quickly Changing River without a new sense of the power and frailty of being alive

Aletheia Girl in River Water First I saw your face
The your whole body lying still Hands jutting eyelids shut Twin nostrils flare sheer Efflorescence when memory cannot speak a horde of body parts glistening

Potential Ground-water Level Changes in the Mississippi River Alluvial Aquifer in Response to Proposed Navigation Improvements on the Yazoo River in Mississippi
A. G. Lamonds, John Michael Kernodle, 1984

Global Continental Changes Julia Branson, Antony Gavin Brown, Kenneth John Gregory, 1996
Palaeohydrology is the study of changes in the waters of the Earth prior to continuous monitoring Knowledge of these changes is important for the understanding of past and present environmental changes and of the form of the present day environment The evolution of the hydrological cycle in response to climatic change produces a chain of environmental and human consequences factors that are becoming more relevant as climate change is predicted Evidence of past environmental changes may be used to validate models with which to predict future change thus the study of rates mechanisms and processes of Late Quaternary hydrological changes is of critical importance This volume is designed for all who are interested in the hydrological impacts of climatic change and the contribution that palaeohydrology can make to the study of these changes

River Restoration Stephen Darby, David Sear, 2008-02-28 River restoration projects are designed to recreate functional characteristics within a context of physical stability They tend to focus on the development and application of geomorphic principles for river restoration design Due to different models obtaining different results on the same problem incomplete or absent data and climatic social cultural changes the designers and managers of such projects frequently face high levels of uncertainty This book will provide a systematic overview of the issues involved in minimizing and coping with uncertainty in river restoration projects A series of thematic sections will be used to define the various sources of uncertainty in restoration projects and how these show at different points in the life cycle design construction and post construction phases of restoration projects The structure of the book will offer a rational theoretical analysis of the problem while providing practical guidance in managing the different sources of uncertainty A wide range of case studies will be included from Europe North America and Australasia Ecological Changes in the Zambezi River Basin Mzime Ndebele-Murisa, 2021-01-11 This book provides an analysis of the ecological conditions and ecosystem goods and services of the Zambezi River Basin ZRB the fourth largest river in Africa Various environmental and anthropogenic factors inclusive of climate environmental flows hydrology morphology pollution and land use changes among others and their interactions are considered as drivers of the river ecosystems The impacts of these drivers on aquatic biota river ecological integrity and the livelihoods of surrounding communities are analysed within the socio economic policy context The book goes beyond the usual inventories and basic research by using the comparative research method CRM in a trans disciplinary manner This CRM analytical approach in this book seeks to interrogate the differences or similarities in socio economic systems livelihoods ecological systems ecosystem goods and services their usage and management under the seemingly different cultural socio economic conditions expected across borders that are within the ZRB The multidisciplinary approach also connects the typical ecological research with social dimensions in a holistic manner The book therefore provides empirical and research based evidence to support strategic planning and policy development in the wake of ecological changes that nations and indeed regions such as the ZRB are grappling with while seeking to sustainably manage precious river systems
