Distributed Platforms Ifip International Federation For Information Processing:

Middleware'98 Nigel Davies, Kerry Raymond, Jochen Seitz, 1998-09-25 Welcome to Middleware 98 and to one of England's most beautiful regions In recent years the distributed systems community has witnessed a growth in the number of conferences leading to difficulties in tracking the literature and a consequent loss of awareness of work done by others in this important field The aim of Middleware 98 is to synthesise many of the smaller workshops and conferences in this area bringing together research communities which were becoming fragmented The conference has been designed to maximise the experience for attendees This is reflected in the choice of a resort venue rather than a big city to ensure a strong focus on interaction with other distributed systems researchers The programme format incorporates a question and answer panel in each session enabling significant issues to be discussed in the context of related papers and presentations The invited speakers and tutorials are intended to not only inform the attendees but also to stimulate discussion and debate

Distributed Applications and Interoperable Systems Hartmut König, Kurt Geihs, Thomas Preuss, 1997-09-30

Distribution and interoperability in heterogeneous computing environments are the key requirements for state of the art information processing systems Distributed applications are making a critical contribution in many application sectors such as office automation finance manufacturing telecommunications aerospace and transportation Users demand support for the construction integration and management of their application systems as well as for the interoperability of independent application components DAIS 97 provides a forum for researchers application designers and users to review discuss and learn about new approaches and concepts in the fields of distributed applications DAIS 97 will especially focus on the interoperability between different applications and services different implementations of the same and of different distributed platforms

Integrated Model of Distributed Systems Wiktor B. Daszczuk, 2019-03-16 In modern distributed systems such as the Internet of Things or cloud computing verifying their correctness is an essential aspect This requires modeling approaches that reflect the natural characteristics of such systems the locality of their components autonomy of their decisions and their asynchronous communication However most of the available verifiers are unrealistic because one or more of these features are not reflected Accordingly in this book we present an original formalism the Integrated Distributed Systems Model IMDS which defines a system as two sets states and messages and a relation of the actions between these sets The server view and the traveling agent's view of the system provide communication duality while general temporal formulas for the IMDS allow automatic verification The features that the model checks include partial deadlock and partial termination communication deadlock and resource deadlock Automatic verification can support the rapid development of distributed systems Further on the basis of the IMDS the Dedan tool for automatic verification of distributed systems has
