Diverse World Views In An English Village:

Stories from the Street David Nixon, 2016-04-01 Stories from the Street is a theological exploration of interviews with men and women who had experienced homelessness at some stage in their lives. Framed within a theology of story and a theology of liberation, Nixon suggests that story is not only a vehicle for creating human transformation but it is one of God's chosen means of effecting change. Short biographies of twelve characters are examined under themes including crises in health and relationships, self-harm and suicide, anger and pain, God and the Bible. Expanding the existing literature of contextual theology, this book provides an alternative focus to a church-shaped mission by advocating with and for a very marginal group, suggesting that their experiences have much to teach the church. Churches are perceived as being active in terms of pastoral work but reluctant to ask more profound questions about why homelessness exists at all. A theology of homelessness suggests not just a God of the homeless but a homeless God who shares stories and provides hope. Engaging with contemporary political and cultural debates about poverty, housing, and public spending, Nixon presents a unique theological exploration of homeless people suffering hope and the human condition.

Diverse World-views in an English Village Nigel Rapport, 1993. A fascinating, highly readable anthropological account of the way the inhabitants of a small English village come to conceive of the world, how they imagine there is such a thing as society and such a thing as an individual. Contrary to the expectations engendered by theory, social life appears as chaotic, multiple, and contradictory, a muddling through facilitated by the ambiguous relationship between the formal appearance of behaviors and the actuality of their personal interpretation. Distributed by Columbia U Press. Annotation copyright by Book News Inc, Portland, OR.

Stigma Doctor Imogen Tyler, 2020-04-15. Stigma is a corrosive social force by which individuals and communities throughout history have been systematically dehumanised, scapegoated, and oppressed. From the literal stigmatizing tattooing of criminals in ancient Greece to modern-day discrimination against Muslims, refugees, and the undeserving poor, stigma has long been a means of securing the interests of powerful elites. In this radical reconceptualisation, Tyler precisely and passionately outlines the political function of stigma as an instrument of state coercion. Through an original social and economic reframing of the history of stigma, Tyler reveals stigma as a political practice, illuminating previously forgotten histories of resistance against stigmatization, boldly arguing that these histories provide invaluable insights for understanding the rise of authoritarian forms of government today.

Social and Cultural Anthropology Nigel Rapport, Joanna Overing, 2000. This text offers an introduction to social and cultural anthropology and defines and discusses its central terms. Among the concepts explored are alterity, cybernetics, human rights, kinship, violence, and stereotypes.

Anyone Nigel Rapport, 2012-07-01. The significance that people grant to their affiliations as members of nations, religions, classes, races, ethnicities, and genders is evidence of the vital need for a cosmopolitan project that originates in the figure of Anyone, the universal and yet individual human being. Cosmopolitanism offers an alternative to multiculturalism, a different vision of identity belonging solidarity and justice that avoids the seemingly intractable character of identity politics it identifies samenesses of the human condition that underlie the surface differences of history culture and society nation ethnicity religion class race and gender This book argues for the importance of cosmopolitanism as a theory of human being as a methodology for social science and as a moral and political program

A World of Fine Difference Adrian J. Peace, 2001 This study considers the extent to which economic modernisation has transformed the rural community In doing so it discusses whether the distinctive character of rural identity has been eroded by powerful and distant political and cultural forces This is the first full length ethnography of an Irish community for a number of years Since the early 1980s the anthropological analysis of community life in Ireland has been limited to brief articles whilst major community studies have been published in other European countries The author has regularly worked in Ireland

Brno Studies in English, 1997 The Journal of the Royal Anthropological Institute, 2002 Articles on all aspects of anthropology

Of Orderlies and Men Nigel Rapport, 2009 Of Orderlies and Men is an account of a working hospital in Scotland as seen from the perspective of the hospital orderly or porter who finds himself at the base of the specialized and hierarchical division of labour Where the hospital organization esteems medical skill and managerial efficiency the male ancillary staff is involved with tasks calling for physical stamina more than an acquired skill In Constance Hospital a portering community or sub culture manages to make its own particular knowledge and skill physical stamina and expertise in traversing the plant central to the institution s workings and identity In this way the porters achieve their own measure of wellness at the worksite Working as a porter himself the author offers the reader an insight into the texture of everyday hospital life and interaction Themes include notions of work and leisure well being poverty power and resistance subversion compassion technology age gender national identity and globalism
