Divine Ecology:

The Divine Ecology Ian Mills,2004 Christ, Creation and the Cosmic Goal of Redemption J.J. Johnson Leese,2018-05-17 J J Johnson Leese discusses how the apostle Paul s writing on Christ s relationship to creation read alongside the interpretations of Irenaeus of Lyon provide a meaningful contribution to contemporary debates on the interrelationship between religion and nature Leese draws upon the integration of three related scholarly trends the increased importance placed on biblical creation themes the emergence of ecotheology and the history of reception while focusing on the Pauline corpus and readings of Paul by Irenaeus thus uncovering a robust creation and ecotheological theology Irenaeus approach provides the possibility for Paul to contribute to ecotheology by way of a theological vision where the whole of reality in relationship to Christ and creation and by extension to soteriology and ecclesiology are central components of Paul s theology Enlightenment with the Divine Ecology Rev. Andrew O. m. s.,2006-04-01 SOLOMON S SEARCH follows the scriptures but reaches into his soul During his forty year reign this great king confronted many life threatening and character defining conflicts When his beloved favorite wife Rebekah ran away he was agonized Why After Rebekah s prophet father Nathan CONDEMNED the King for worshipping Milcom God of fertility for an heir from his beloved Rebekah Solomon BANISHED Nathan from the kingdom And Rebekah felt she had to leave or one of the king s older jealous sons would kill her as yet unborn child When after continuous searching he failed to find Rebekah the king removed her name from all records Turning his energies to building God s Temple crafty Hiram of Tyre plagued the King by tripling the price for all quality material which Hiram only could provide Solomon s heir Rehoboam tried to kill his father three times by treachery at a lion hunt by a serpent in his bed and by poison But God saved him When the King was dieing Rebekah and her grown son returned from the hidden caves In humility Solomon mumbled All is vanity But Rebekah assured him of his great contributions the Temple peace during his reign of forty years and his great integrity Solomon died with real hope for the future of Israel Peculiar Faith Jay Emerson Johnson,2014-03-01 Residing at the intersection of constructive theology and critical social theory this book provides a resource for both students and clergy to reinterpret Christian theology and re imagine Christian faith in the twenty first century The author seeks to encourage and equip Christian faith communities to move beyond the decades long stalemate over human sexuality and gender identity because Queer gifts emerge in Christian communities when lesbian gay bisexual and transgender LGBT people no longer feel compelled to justify their presence in those communities Useful in both seminary classrooms and in congregational settings the book is a contribution to the still emerging field of queer theology translating the rigors of scholarly research into transforming proposals for faith communities Christianity in a Time of Climate Change Kristen Poole,2020-04-17 What does climate change have to do with religion and spirituality Even though a changing environment will have a dire impact on human populations affecting everything from food supply to health to housing the vast majority of Americans do not consider climate change a moral or a religious issue Yet the damage of climate change a phenomenon to which we all contribute through our collective carbon emissions presents an unprecedented ethical problem one that touches a foundational moral principle of Christianity Jesus dictate to love the neighbor This care for the neighbor stretches across time as well as space We are called to care for the neighbors of the future as well as those of the present How can we connect the ethical considerations of climate change the knowledge that our actions directly or indirectly cause harm to others to our individual and collective spiritual practice Christianity in a Time of Climate Change offers a series of reflective essays that consider the Christian ethics of climate change and suggest ways to fold the neighbors of the future into our spiritual lives as an impetus to meaningful personal social and ultimately environmental transformations

Dixon Onderdonk,1980 Religious and Theological Abstracts ,2007 Nature's Sacrament David C. McDuffie,2021-09-24 In a sacramental ecology divine grace is to be found in the evolutionary emergence of life The Epic of Evolution is the scientific story that reveals that we live in an approximately 14 billion year old universe on a planet that is approximately 4.6 billion years old and that we are a part of the ongoing process of life that has existed on Earth for roughly 4 billion years. Nature's Sacrament focuses on the religious and ecological significance of the evolutionary epic in an effort to seamlessly connect the ecological value attributed as a part of an understanding of the evolutionary connectedness of life on Earth with the Divine grace understood to be present in Christian sacramental worship. David C. McDuffie is a faculty member in the Religious Studies Department at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro where his primary teaching schedule includes courses in World Religions, Religion in America, Christian History, Religion and Environment, and Religion and Politics. Broadly his research and teaching interests involve the subject area of Religion and Culture which includes but is not limited to the relationships between religion and politics, science and health care. This is his first book.

Women, the Earth, the Divine Eleanor Rae, 1994. Eleanor Rae co-author of Created in Her Image weaves together three compelling topics of contemporary concern: women's identity, the environmental crisis, and the feminine divine. Women, the Earth, the Divine presents the case for rediscovering a feminine principle that is not the product of a patriarchal worldview. Rather, Rae derives it from the real experience of women from the East as well as the West. Rae looks at the articulation of a feminine principle from the perspective of ecofeminism and in light of the contribution the religions of the world can make to the ecofeminist project. A Jungian and process theology perception of the complementarity of the sexes becomes the framework for Rae's discussion which invites dialogue between women and men, scientists and religionists. Women, the Earth, the Divine examines Western tendencies that ignore women's voices and experience and disregard women's approaches to every aspect of life including science and economics, psychology and sociology, philosophy and theology. Rae argues that reclaiming the feminine principle provides the key element to the dialogue that must take place among peoples if the real and immediate needs of the world and especially of the environmental crisis are to be addressed. Part I of Women, the Earth, the Divine explores the present situation of women and the basics of ecofeminism. Part II relates the basis for an Earth-centered ethic cognizant of the link between the oppression of women and the exploitation of nature. In Part III, Rae's chapter on the Holy Spirit as the feminine divine is a breathtaking tour de force which retrieves basic elements for a re-articulation of Christian identity. Women, the Earth, the Divine concludes with surveys of the feminine principle in four major world religions: Hinduism, Judaism, Buddhism, and Islam.

The Divine Ecology Or Nature, God and Human Reason in the Brothers Karamazov Sarah C. Lusk, 1953. The Future of the Christian Tradition Robert Joseph Miller, 2007. What is the future of the Christian tradition as it confronts the challenges and opportunities of the global age? That question addressed by authors from around the globe leads in turn to more questions: What elements of a traditional Christian faith can be carried forward in an authentic contemporary faith? The Bible as Sacred Scripture, Life after death, Sin and guilt, Reward and punishment. How do we make an earth-centered vision the heart of a faith for the second axial age? And many more.
