Applying Neural Networks A Practical Guide:

Applying Neural Networks Kevin Swingler,1996 This book is designed to enable the reader to design and run a neural network based project It presents everything the reader will need to know to ensure the success of such a project The book contains a free disk with C and C programs which implement many of the techniques discussed in the book Terrigenous Mass Movements Biswajeet Pradhan,Manfred Buchroithner,2012-04-05 Terrestrial mass movements i e cliff collapses soil creeps mudflows landslides etc are severe forms of natural disasters mostly occurring in mountainous terrain which is subjected to specific geological geomorphological and climatological conditions as well as to human activities It is a challenging task to accurately define the position type and activity of mass movements for the purpose of creating inventory records and potential vulnerability maps Remote sensing techniques in combination with Geographic Information System tools allow state of the art investigation of the degree of potential mass movements and modeling surface processes for hazard and risk mapping Similarly through statistical prediction models future mass movement prone areas can be identified and damages can to a certain extent be minimized Issues of scale and selection of morphological attributes for the scientific analysis of mass movements call for new developments in data modeling and spatio temporal GIS analysis The book is a product of a cooperation between the editors and several contributing authors addressing current issues and recent developments in GI technology and mass movements research Its fundamental treatment of this technology includes data modeling topography geology geomorphology remote sensing artificial neural networks binomial regression fuzzy logic spatial statistics and analysis and scientific visualization Both theoretical and practical issues are addressed Information Theory and Evolution John Avery,2012 Information Theory and Evolution discusses the phenomenon of life including its origin and evolution and also human cultural evolution against the background of thermodynamics statistical mechanics and information theory Among the central themes is the seeming contradiction between the second law of thermodynamics and the high degree of order and complexity produced by living systems This paradox has its resolution in the information content of the Gibbs free energy that enters the biosphere from outside sources as the author will show The role of information in human cultural evolution is another focus of the book The first edition of Information Theory and Evolution made a strong impact on thought in the field by bringing together results from many disciplines The new second edition offers updated results based on reports of important new research in several areas including exciting new studies of the human mitochondrial and Y chromosomal DNA Another extensive discussion featured in the second edition is contained in a new appendix devoted to the relationship of entropy and Gibbs free energy to economics This appendix includes a review of the ideas of Alfred Lotka Frederick Soddy Nicholas Georgiescu Roegen and Herman E Daly and discusses the relevance of these ideas to the current economic crisis The new edition discusses current research on the origin of life the distinction between thermodynamic information and cybernetic information new DNA research and human prehistory developments in
