Applying The Canon In Islam:

Applying the Canon in Islam Brannon M. Wheeler, 1996-07-03 Using examples from Islamic law Ndembu divination and Aranda religion this book argues how the notion of canon is used to authorize and maintain certain types of interpretive reasoning and the social institutions that employ them The bulk of the book outlines how the anaf school of Islamic law was able to legitimize itself by extending the canonical authority of the Qur'an to the sunnah of the prophet the opinions of selected local authorities and the scholarship of earlier generations The anaf example shows that the application of canon is not about overcoming the limits of a closed text but rather about imposing limits on a range of interpretations made possible by a variegated and malleable textual corpus American Journal of Islamic Social Sciences 15:2 Atallah Bogdan Kopanski, Fida Mohammad, Abdel-Qader Yassine, Mohammed Awais Refudeen, The American Journal of Islamic Social Sciences AJISS established in 1984 is a quarterly double blind peer reviewed and interdisciplinary journal published by the International Institute of Islamic Thought IIIT and distributed worldwide The journal showcases a wide variety of scholarly research on all facets of Islam and the Muslim world including subjects such as anthropology history philosophy and metaphysics politics psychology religious law and traditional Islam Islamic Interpretive Tradition and Gender Justice Nevin Reda, Yasmin Amin, 2020-12-10 Since the 1980s Muslim women reformers have made great strides in critiquing and reinterpreting the Islamic tradition Yet these achievements have not produced a significant shift in the lived experience of Islam particularly with respect to equality and justice in Muslim families A new approach is needed one that examines the underlying instruments of tradition and explores avenues for effecting change In Islamic Interpretive Tradition and Gender Justice leading intellectuals and emerging researchers grapple with the problem of entrenched positions within Islam that affect women investigating the processes by which interpretations become authoritative the theoretical foundations upon which they stand and the ways they have been used to inscribe and enforce gender limitations Together they argue that the Islamic interpretive tradition displays all the trappings of canonical texts canonical figures and canon law despite the fact that Islam does not ordain religious authorities who could sanction processes of canonization Through this lens the essays in this collection offer insights into key issues in Islamic feminist scholarship ranging from interreligious love child marriage polygamy and divorce to stoning segregation seclusion and gender hierarchies Rooting their analysis in the primary texts and historical literature of Islam contributors to Islamic Interpretive Tradition and Gender Justice contest oppressive interpretative canons subvert classical methodologies and provide new directions in the ongoing project of revitalizing Islamic exegesis and its ethical and legal implications ISLAMIC PERSPECTIVES AND PANDEMIC IN ENGLISH LITERATURE Hasnul Insani Djohar, Willy Oktaviano, How did you feel when you see your students are struggling to understand heavy literary texts written by mainstream British or American writers such as William Shakespeare and Ernest Hemingway Indeed the students have no ideas about the texts contexts and the texts do not relate to their cultures Of course they feel alienation strangers and foreigners in their classes and their countries such as Indonesia Indonesia has the largest Muslim population in the world but it seems that it has no power to distribute its own fruitful cultures which has more than 3000 distinct cultures and at least 700 active languages from Sabang to Merauke to its young generations To incorporate this rich Indonesian culture and religion such as Islam this book inspires Indonesian lecturers and global English lecturers to use our traditions such as Muslim traditions in teaching English or literature This idea aims to develop our students understanding in learning English literature in a more meaningful way as they learn it by relating it with their traditions and religion that they practice every day instead of merely studying foreign western cultures and literature without understanding first their own traditions This book provides an example of how to incorporate our students cultures such as Muslim cultures and Islamic perspectives in understanding Western cultures and literature to establish a justice equal society and a more globally civilized society which appreciates different people regardless of their different cultural and religious backgrounds In doing so this book decolonizes white supremacy which tends to dominate language and literature in the world By engaging with Islamic perspectives in investigating English literature this book inspires global English literary scholars to decolonize English literary curriculum by incorporating Islamic studies in investigating the English texts to make our students learn English texts in a more meaningful way as it relates to their traditions and daily lives

The Islamic School of Law Peri J. Bearman,Rudolph Peters, Frank E. Vogel,2005 These selected papers from the III International Conference on Islamic Legal Studies held in 2000 at Harvard Law School offer building blocks toward the entire edifice of understanding the complex development of the madhhab a development that even in the contemporary dissolution of madhhab lines and grouping continues to fascinate

Revisiting Premodern Islamic Science and Experience Hannah C. Erlwein,Katja Krause,2025-01-02 This open access book takes a fresh look at the nature and place of experience in premodern Islamic science It seeks to answer two questions What kind of experience constituted premodern Islamic science And in what ways did that experience constitute science Answering these questions the authors critique the trajectory of most existing histories of the period which tend to reduce experience to empirical method or practice This view reflects the emphasis that histories of modern science especially of the Scientific Revolution have placed on empiricism the standard against which Islamic actors were then measured This book offers a new historiography arguing that experience had a far wider scope in the world of Islamic science Combining an innovative theoretical framework with three case studies and a reflective epilogue by renowned experts in the field this work offers the history of science a solid foundation on which to build its analyses of premodern science and the modality scope and role of experience therein As a result it speaks to specialists in the history of premodern Islamic science and historians of science in general to reconsider their historiographical assumptions Index Islamicus ,1998
