Beliefs and Policymaking in the Middle East: Analysis of the Israeli-Palestinian Conflict Linda Marie Saghi Aidan, PhD, 2005-09-13 Click here to read an excerpt from the book I have long tried to understand why the Arab Israeli Conflict has not been resolved Despite many attempts at regional and international negotiations since the time of the Mandate the Conflict has persisted and the Palestinians still do not have a state The continuation of the Palestinian question within the more general context of this issue places it at the heart of the Conflict and this is the reason why I centered my analysis on the Israelis and just the Palestinians instead of all the Arab states in the region Lack of a solution to the Arab Israeli Conflict may thus be associated with absence of a state for the Palestinians My case study begins with a brief introduction to trends in negotiations after which I come to my central research question Why despite all these attempts at negotiation had the Arab Israeli Conflict not been resolved I had a feeling the problem might have to do with beliefs That is both sides to the Conflict held and some still hold maximalist beliefs about having the whole of what was mandated Palestine for themselves Both sides have made advances toward peace but the Conflict continues and the Palestinians still do not have a state I assumed that unless both sides changed their beliefs regarding territory there would be no resolution to the Conflict In my view change was not a matter of eliminating a belief but changing the priority of one belief over another i e to believe in peace instead of believing in having all the land of Palestine Before developing some ideas about beliefs in the next section I reviewed some of the literature in international relations that dealt with conflict analysis Two of the more popular ones are the realist approach and organizational theory Realist theorists Hans Morgenthau and Kenneth Waltz examine conflict in terms of maximizing interests in particular power See Introduction Their approaches can explain situations where interests are clear cut but power cannot always impose itself as is seen by international attempts at negotiation or even Israel s efforts to impose a solution on the Palestinians Organizational theory does not necessarily explain situations where state or government bureaucracies don't exist e.g. with the Palestinians during the time of the Mandate I then decided to go ahead and see what beliefs had to offer to conflict analysis In the section following the realist and organization discussion I looked at beliefs from the standpoint of belief system theorists in international relations and from the psychological approaches that influenced them In order to better examine beliefs and be able to use them to explain this Conflict and perhaps others later I formulated four questions and then looked at what belief system theorists and psychologists had to say about them How were beliefs formed were they consistent with behavior could they change and if so how Two of the major theories in psychology were looked at Attribution and learning See Introduction for more on these approaches From these two approaches we can learn much about how beliefs are formed and in so doing how they can change For example in interpreting incoming information individuals tend to attribute causes to explaining event This causation process implies some reasoning ability and facilitates learning One problem with attribution theory is that it indicates what an individual should do but the person is not always so careful in causal analysis Still the approach is valuable to understanding beliefs These theories also highlight the importance of experience as the past is so often the source of recurrent behavior For any successful negotiation communicat

The Arab Civilization Joseph Hell, 1926 Military Intelligence and the Arab Revolt Polly A. Mohs, 2010-04-05 Military Intelligence and the Arab Revolt examines the use and exploitation of intelligence in formulating Britain's strategy for the Arab Revolt during the First World War It also presents a radical re-examination of the achievements of T. E. Lawrence Lawrence of Arabia as an intelligence officer and guerrilla leader Modern intelligence techniques such as Sigint, Imint and Humint were incorporated into strategic planning with greater expertise and consistency in Arabia than in any other theatre during the war and their deployment as tactical support for the Arab forces was decisive Using much previously unpublished material this study shows conclusively how Britain's intelligence community in Arabia influenced the conduct of the Arab campaign promoted a full scale guerrilla war and thereby facilitated the Arab armies march north into Syria, Palestine and the modern Middle East Polly A. Mohs contributes to the unveiling of another hidden corner of the history of the Middle East and to a better understanding of the significance of

Salahuddin Khuda Bukhsh, 1908 Arab Monetary Integration (RLE Economy of Middle East) Khair El-Din Haseeb, Samir Makdisi, 2014-10-30 Pre eminent among the requisites for economic integration is monetary integration It is the premise of the chapters in this book that if the Arab world is to achieve a closer degree of cooperation in economic and political spheres the issue of monetary integration must be given much more attention To this end the contributors to this book who include well known academics and economic experts from the Arab countries Europe the USA and Latin America have looked at the experience of other areas of the world which have introduced monetary unity They consider the experiences of Western Europe Latin America and Western Africa evaluating them with the objective of focusing on the various major issues which have to be coped with when planning for closer monetary cooperation While the analysis concerning the scope for future Arab monetary integration revealed varying positions as to the factors which should be stressed and the pre requisites which should be fulfilled there emerged general agreement on certain major issues including the following at the present time the Arab countries should strive to achieve partial rather than full monetary integration and to create the requisite conditions for such a move economic and monetary integration should be viewed as mutually reinforcing rather than as successive processes and the political will to achieve integration is a major pre requisite for any move in that direction First published in 1981 Sino-Iranica Berthold Laufer, 1919 Arab Thinking Israel. Miśrad
