Consulting Profession In Developing Countries A Strategy For Development:

The consulting profession in developing countries : a strategy for development Syed S. Kirmani, Warren C. Baum, 1991 The authors concluded that during the past two decades the number of domestic consulting firms in developing countries has increased phenomenally However the quality of their performance has not kept pace with the growth in numbers The policies and practices of government internal weaknesses in staffing and management and the lack of a supportive environment have prevented domestic consulting firms from effectively exercising the key role that they should in planning designing and implementing their countries investment programs The authors also point out that favorable opportunities for growth of the consulting profession exist but a number of constraints will have to be overcome for those to be realized The profession generally suffers from several structural weaknesses It is characterized by a small number of large firms mostly public enterprises which dominate the business and at the other end of the scale a very large number of small or medium size private firms often in a precarious position The recommended strategy for strengthening the domestic consulting is addressed to both the developing countries and the World Bank and other donors The Consulting Profession in Developing Countries Syed S. Kirmani, Warren C. Baum, 1992 The authors concluded that during the past two decades the number of domestic consulting firms in developing countries has increased phenomenally However the quality of their performance has not kept pace with the growth in numbers The policies and practices of government internal weaknesses in staffing and management and the lack of a supportive environment have prevented domestic consulting firms from effectively exercising the key role that they should in planning designing and implementing their countries investment programs The authors also point out that favorable opportunities for growth of the consulting profession exist but a number of constraints will have to be overcome for those to be realized The profession generally suffers from several structural weaknesses It is characterized by a small number of large firms mostly public enterprises which dominate the business and at the other end of the scale a very large number of small or medium size private firms often in a precarious position The recommended strategy for strengthening the domestic consulting is addressed to both the developing countries and the World Bank and other donors

New Perspectives on Construction in Developing Countries George Ofori, 2012-06-26 Developing countries face the challenge of maintaining economic growth and socio economic development at the core of which sits the construction industry Considerable research on construction in developing countries took place in the 1970 s and 1980 s but little since a gap which this book fills Including contributions from prominent academics and practitioners in Australia China the Netherlands Portugal Singapore South Africa Switzerland and the UK this is a truly international analysis of a subject of global interest The most insightful and relevant of recent research on topics such as Millennium Development Goals the informal construction sector human resource development technology finance and social change are all addressed in the context of the construction industry in the developing world Also considered are other key aspects of construction industry development such as institution building nurturing of contractors and consultants and championing of industry development programmes While the challenge has grown and the needs have become even more pressing the research to date has rarely presented effective solutions Focussing on those aspects of the construction industry most crucial to development this is a much needed up to date study that sheds new light on a variety of concepts and issues This is essential reading for researchers professionals and students interested in the construction industry in developing countries Readers of this book will be interested in its companion volume Contemporary Issues of Construction in Developing Countries International Consulting: Providing Your Service to International Agencies Lindsay Falvey,1993 History context and development of development consulting and some means of entering the profession during the 1990s Policies and Measures for Small-contractor Development in the Construction Industry ,1996 Applied Geography and Development ,1995 Agricultural Research in Southern Africa A. T. Spurling,1992 Government Reports Announcements & Index ,1992-06 Publications Update World Bank,1992 Government Reports Annual Index , Sections 1 2 Keyword Index Section 3 Personal author index Section 4 Corporate author index Section 5 Contract grant number index NTIS order report number index 1 E Section 6 NTIS order report number index F Z Aanwinsten van de Centrale Bibliotheek (Queteletfonds) Bibliothèque centrale (Fonds Quetelet),1992 Towards a Sustainable Urban Environment Instituto Brasileiro de Administração Municipal,World Bank,1993 The aims of this discussion paper are to improve understanding of the issue of sustainable development in the context of the urban environment in Rio to disseminate the results of the rapid diagnostic explored in the case study to help researchers of urban environmental issues in Brazil consolidate their work to improve the mechanisms for transferring the findings from research into urban environmental management and to define better ways of disseminating research results The volume discusses the vulnerability of Rio de Janeiro to environmental degradation and explores several historical antecedents The papers which have been contributed to this volume have been grouped around seven main topics conceptual issues institutional issues financial issues operational experience and technological issues and training and the view from the nongovernmental organizations The book provides a background to the physical characteristics of the city and examines the historical framework for the centralized urban development pattern both in the country and in the State of Rio de Janeiro It explores the conceptual framework within which to analyze the case of Rio and the institutional framework of environmental policy in Brazil and the financing of public expenditures on the environment The State Holding Company Anjali Kumar,World Bank,1992 Awakening the Market Danny M. Leipziger,1992 This essay considers the basic issues facing transitional socialist economies including price reforms enterprise and financial sector reforms and institutional changes relating to the role of government Using Viet Nam as the case in point it identifies the key constraints facing governments seeking to move rapidly to the market system Although Viet Nam is only on its third year of reform it has achieved a number of successes prominent among which are almost complete price decontrol and a flexible exchange rate The essay addresses a number of specific concerns facing Viet Nam Among these are links between enterprise and banking form issues of decentralization industrial policy changes in ownership and private sector development and issues of social justice The objectives of this paper are to i inform a broad readership about the bold economic reform program being undertaken without international assistance in Viet Nam ii to identify for the authorities key bottlenecks and future issues to be addressed iii to contrast where possible this experiment vis a vis reform programs in other countries and iv to begin the process of generalizing lessons from these cases so as to better understand the transformation process itself
