Construction Robots:

Construction Robots Leslie Cousineau, Nobuyasu Miura, 1998-01-01 This book presents Japan's achievements in the development and application of over 100 construction robots and five automated systems. The Japanese have progressed far beyond the U.S. in these new technologies which are already having a revolutionary impact on Japanese architecture. The impact of robotics has already begun to show measured improvements in quality, productivity, and safety in construction.

Construction Robots Thomas Bock, Thomas Linner, 2016-10-24 Combining architectural theory with the latest trends in manufacturing technology, this volume shows how Single Task Construction Robots (STCRs) can improve productivity in the construction industry. It presents two hundred types of STCRs and includes numerous real-world case studies, making it an excellent resource for professional engineers and researchers.

Automation and Robotics in Construction XI Alan Chamberlain, 2012-12-02 Sourced from international experts, this book presents papers dealing with a wide range of soft and hard research issues at various stages of development in the field. Some cover entirely new ground, whilst others reflect progress on the sometimes frustrating path to truly robust technology. Of particular interest are contributions discussing issues of exploitation and commercialisation, the integration of end products within the design and construction processes, incorporating information technology (IT) and the impact of the emerging technology on the culture and organisation of the construction industry. A mark of growing maturity is apparent in the coverage of health and safety and related social issues. This is complemented by a clear commitment to the consideration of human factors and the environment. It is hoped that by promoting a wider debate on the matters of future technology and its horizons, on the identification of what industry needs from the research and development community, and on building effective partnerships between academia, industry, and government, the publication not only addresses the practical commercial obligation to seek robust solutions for today's problems but will stimulate research for the years to come.

Automation and Robotics in Construction X George H. Watson, Richard L. Tucker, Jewell K. Walters, 1993 Recent accomplishments and visions for the future in the practical applications of construction robots and automated systems are reviewed in the 71 papers in this volume. The experience of specialists is brought together on a wide range of activities that employ common analytical and experimental methods in their estimation of automated construction planning. The results of the meeting are of world-wide interest and will help to stimulate future research and analysis in this field.

Glazed Panel Construction with Human-Robot Cooperation Seungyeol Lee, 2011-09-21 These days construction companies are beginning to be concerned about a potential labor shortage by demographic changes and an aging construction work force. Also, an improvement in construction safety could not only reduce accidents but also decrease the cost of the construction and is therefore one of the imperative goals of the construction industry. These challenges correspond to the potential for Automation and Robotics in Construction as one of solutions. Almost half of construction work is said to be material handling and materials used for construction are heavy and bulky for humans. To date various types of robots have been developed for glazed panel construction. Through the case studies on construction to which the robots were applied, however, we identified difficulties to be overcome. In this study, a human robot cooperative system is deduced as one approach to surmount these difficulties, then considerations on interactions among the operator, robot, and environment are applied to design of the system controller. The human robot cooperative system can cope with various and construction environments through real time interaction with a human robot and construction environment simultaneously. The physical power of a robot system helps a human to handle heavy construction materials with a relatively scaled down load. Also, a human can feel and respond to the force reflected from robot end effector acting with working environment. Through the experiments and mock up tests with a prototype robot, we observe the characteristics of the power assist and the force reflection, the merits of the human robot cooperation system. To apply human robot cooperative system at real construction sites, Glazed Ceiling Panel Construction Robot is developed for the first time. This robot is distinguished from other glazed panel construction robots because of the methods of lifting the panel to high installation positions and installing the fragile and bulk panel with robot force control. After applying to real construction sites, evaluation on the productivity of the developed robot was done by comparing and analyzing with the existing installation methods.
