series of exercises designed to accompany the original study of the Grammar Those on page 1 are for the practice of the student in the orthographic rules contained in the sections there designated Those on pages 2 8 illustrate the verbal paradigms These are to be translated and each form should at the same time be analyzed or divided into its significant elements the meaning of each separately stated and the law of their combination given Thus 1313519 Ye masc have killed consists of the ground form of the Kal pret 82 1 and E13 abridged from 2 m Pl Pron 13131 the former losing its pretonic Kamets m the combination 85 2 A And 151397 they masc will kill consists of 3 from 3 m Pron Sin 85 1 A which before a vowelless letter becomes a 85 2 A and bhp const Inf 84 2 the basis of the future 84 3 which loses its vowel 85 2 A 2 before a abridged from the plur Ending 33 85 1 A Before proceeding to any given exercise the corresponding paradigm and the verbs of that class in the vocabulary should be thoroughly committed to memory About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Hebrew Chrestomathy William Henry Green, 2015-08-04 Excerpt from Hebrew Chrestomathy Or Lesson in Reading and Writing Hebrew The value of grammatical exercises and of selected courses of reading carefully annotated to suit the wants of beginners has long been recognized in the classic tongues But the study of Hebrew even in our best institutions is prosecuted at comparative disadvantage for lack of such aids The student plods laboriously through the Grammar adding paradigm to paradigm and rules to rules until his memory is overloaded with the confused and ill digested mass He is then set at translating but is embarrassed in his use of the Lexicon by his imperfect familiarity with the letters and especially by the difficulty of distinguishing the radical or primary forms of words in all the metamorphoses to which they are subjected from prefixes suffixes and inflections and what renders this process yet more vexatious and trying is that words thus painfully sought for are forgotten almost as soon as they are learned and must be looked for afresh perhaps in the very next sentence He is next confronted by the idioms of the language in the arrangement of words the structure of sentences and the use of peculiar forms of expression Unless these are pointed out and the true key furnished for their explanation the finer and more delicate sort will likely be unnoticed while others will be passed over with a vague and imperfect understanding of their real nature Those methods may well be distrusted which propose to impart knowledge without proportionate toil No valuable result can ever be gained without effort The acquisition of a language involves a familiar acquaintance with its grammatical forms the meanings of its words and the entire multitude of its idioms and this cannot be secured without time and labour About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www

forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work. Forgotten Books uses state-of-the-art technology to digitally reconstruct the work, preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy. In rare cases, an imperfection in the original, such as a blemish or missing page, may be replicated in our edition. We do, however, repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully; any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works.

Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts: 1 We have not used OCR (Optical Character Recognition), as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos. 2 In books where there are images such as portraits, maps, sketches, etc., we have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact. Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts, we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy.
