Food and Nutrition for Athletics: Redefining the Role and Application Xiao Li Shen, Baoming Tian, 2025-04-28

Food and nutrition play crucial roles in athletic performance and overall health. Traditionally, the focus has been on providing athletes with adequate energy and nutrients to support training and competition demands. However, recent advancements in sports science and nutrition research have led to a re-evaluation of the role and application of food and nutrition in athletics. This includes exploring innovative dietary strategies to optimize performance, enhance recovery, and mitigate the risk of injury and illness. Additionally, there is growing recognition of the individualized nature of nutrition requirements among athletes, considering factors such as training load, metabolic demands, and genetic predispositions. As such, redefining the role and application of food and nutrition in athletics is essential for maximizing the potential of athletes and promoting long-term health and well-being.

Interdisciplinary Economics Wilfred Dolfsma, Stefan Kesting, 2013-07-18. Kenneth Boulding was a prolific writer across so many different fields that not only is he often much referred to and cited, he is considered a core member of many of these fields. Boulding is the quintessential interdisciplinary scholar. He died in 1993, but he has left a legacy in economics, conflict studies, systems theory, ecology, biology, communication studies, and ethics. As an economist proper, he has tested and expanded the boundaries of that field without unduly invading and undermining the expertise and established knowledge of the other social sciences. This proposed volume will allow scholars who have worked or are starting to work in areas that Boulding has initiated, established, and made a continued contribution to, to understand the links between these fields and other related ones. The volume will establish a source of
