Law and Policy 2022 Harald Ginzky, Fabiano De Andrade Corrêa, Elizabeth Dooley, Irene L. Heuser, Patricia Kameri-Mbote, Robert Kibugi, Oliver C. Ruppel, 2024-03-01 This open access book presents an important discussion on the interface between sustainable soil management and climate mitigation and adaptation It investigates a variety of aspects in this context such as the political and societal consequences for countries in the Global South an assessment of the outcomes of the UNFCCC Conference of Parties held in Glasgow appropriate legal instruments to promote descaling regulatory concepts for negative emissions in soil and land use the debate in Europe on carbon uptake in soils and the climate related policy of the Convention on Biological Diversity Lastly it provides information on recent court rulings on climate mitigation in

Germany and Australia and their relevance for sustainable soil management This sixth volume of the International Yearbook of Soil Law and Policy is divided into four parts the first of which deals with various aspects of the theme Climate Mitigation and Adaptation and Sustainable Soil Management The second part covers recent international developments the third presents regional and national reports and the fourth discusses overarching issues Given the range of key topics covered the book offers an indispensable tool for all academics legislators and policymakers working in this field The International Yearbook of Soil Law and Policy series discusses central questions in law and politics with regard to the protection and sustainable management of soil and land at the international national and regional level

Review of NOAA's Plan for the Scientific Data Stewardship Program National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Atmospheric Sciences and Climate, Committee on Climate Data Records from NOAA Operational Satellites, 2005-08-16 To better understand our climate system it is important that we have climate data records CDRs time series of measurements of sufficient length consistency and continuity to determine climate variability and change that possess the accuracy longevity and stability to facilitate credible climate monitoring In 2004 the National Research Council NRC published Climate Data Records from Environmental Satellites to provide the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration NOAA with initial guidelines on how to develop and implement an effective CDR program NOAA used this book to draft a plan for a new Scientific Data Stewardship SDS program and then asked NRC to review it The new program will be responsible for processing archiving and distributing observations from satellite and supporting ground based platforms for monitoring diagnosing understanding predicting modeling and assessing climate variation and change The NRC review outlines several ways in which to improve NOAA s draft plan most importantly by clarifying advisory mechanisms providing more detail about how NOAA will coordinate with important partners in generating CDRs articulating how the program will prioritize its activities and developing ways to realistically project future costs However the draft plan is sound overall and NOAA should immediately begin implementing the SDS program while revising the plan as recommended in the book

Agriculture and climate change Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations ,2020-10-26 Many national legal frameworks still do not include laws and measures specifically intended to tackle climate change in the agriculture sectors However national laws and institutional frameworks are necessary for good governance and can operate to support the implementation of national policy and international commitments including on climate change Indeed Target 16.3 of the Sustainable Development Goals calls for the promotion of the rule of law and the assurance of equal access to justice for all This is both an important stand alone goal and an enabling goal for the realization of the transformative 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development Furthermore the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations FAO sees appropriately designed informed and responsive national legal and institutional frameworks as key to supporting the implementation of countries commitments under the 2015 Paris Agreement as well as their Nationally Determined Contribution in the food agriculture and natural resources sectors Climate change presents multiple challenges and it cannot be addressed effectively in silos Attention must be paid not only to specific agriculture sectors but also to governance areas that are interconnected with agriculture such as public spending and investment social protection and rural development Efforts should be coordinated with the engagement of civil society including the legal profession vulnerable groups and the private sector This Study addresses the principal expressions of the food and agriculture sector crops and livestock agriculture forestry and fisheries looking at the critical cross cutting issues and their integration into agriculture law It provides a comprehensive overview of the legal and institutional issues to consider when working towards preparing the agriculture sector for the challenges of climate change

Climate Change at the UN Security Council Ash Murphy, 2025-06-30 This book examines the operation of the United Nations Security Council UNSC to better understand the motivating factors that underpin its activation of Article 39 Arguing that climate change should be considered a threat to international peace and security the theory of securitisation is employed to dissect the UNSC and identify the power dynamics that dictate when and why Article 39 is activated Exploring how contemporary threats to peace and security can unite the agenda of the UNSC and shedding light on the narratives used to reach consensus the author considers how this knowledge might be purposed to support the transition of climate change into the realm of Article 39 How necessary and useful a UNSC resolution would be is given thought and a possible pathway to achieving it is outlined Aimed at academics and institutions that commentate on the UNSC climate change securitisation theory and undergraduate and postgraduate students of law international relations UN law and those undertaking environmental studies this book will also be of interest to practitioners and diplomats in and outside of the UN and anyone seeking to further the climate security nexus
