Towards Democratic Development States in Southern Africa Godfrey Kanyenze, Herbert Jauch, 2016-12-14 The dawn of the twenty first century heralded an apparent change of fortunes for most sub Saharan African economies with annual growth averaging over 5% for fifteen years However this was not accompanied by structural transformation poverty food insecurity unemployment and inequality persist Structural transformation has not been and indeed cannot be delivered by market forces and neo liberal economic policies it requires a state committed to development and to achieving it in a democratic way To what extent do the countries of Southern Africa exhibit the characteristics of such a developmental state What steps if any do they need to take in order to become one The book answers the questions with respect to South Africa Botswana Namibia Zimbabwe Angola and Malawi Godfrey Kanyenze and his colleagues have assembled a distinguished team of writers to take the temperature of the regional political economy and chart a path for its future development

The Warrior State T.V. Paul, 2014-01-02 Seemingly from its birth Pakistan has teetered on the brink of becoming a failed state Today it ranks 133rd out of 148 countries in global competitiveness Its economy is as dysfunctional as its political system is corrupt both rely heavily on international aid for their existence Taliban forces occupy 30 percent of the country It possesses over a hundred nuclear weapons that could easily fall into terrorists hands Why in an era when countries across the developing world are experiencing impressive economic growth and building democratic institutions has Pakistan been such a conspicuous failure In The Warrior State noted international relations and South Asia scholar T V Paul untangles this fascinating riddle Paul argues that the geostrategic curse akin to the resource curse that plagues oil rich autocracies is at the root of Pakistan s unique inability to progress Since its founding in 1947 Pakistan has been at the center of major geopolitical struggles the US Soviet rivalry the conflict with India and most recently the post 9 11 wars No matter how ineffective the regime is massive foreign aid keeps pouring in from major powers and their allies with a stake in the region The reliability of such aid defuses any pressure on political elites to launch the far reaching domestic reforms necessary to promote sustained growth higher standards of living and more stable democratic institutions Paul shows that excessive war making efforts have drained Pakistan s limited economic resources without making the country safer or more stable Indeed despite the regime s emphasis on security the country continues to be beset by widespread violence and terrorism In an age of transnational terrorism and nuclear proliferation understanding Pakistan s development particularly the negative effects of foreign aid and geopolitical centrality is more important than ever Painstakingly researched and brilliantly argued The Warrior State tackles what may be the world's most dangerous powder keg and uncovers the true causes of Pakistan's enormously consequential failure

The Post-war Dilemma Sarah P. Lockhart, 2012 What determines economic growth after civil wars States emerging from civil war face a host of political social and economic challenges to recovery But extant research demonstrates that states with greater economic growth after civil war are more likely to sustain the peace How then do post civil war states achieve growth What unique factors affect the economic prospects of post civil war states I suggest that in the post war period states are sometimes forced to sacrifice slightly longer term economic goals in order to satisfy short term demands for political security This in turn threatens the viability of sustained peace presenting a difficult dilemma for decision makers In my dissertation I argue that the process and outcome of the war along with the capacity of the post war state affect the political and economic strategies adopted by the post war government other stakeholder states the international community and economic investors The post war state must decide whether or not to address pre war rebel grievances and decide how much to invest in security as opposed to the economy Stakeholder states must decide whether or not to intervene on behalf of the government or the opposition The international community must decide whether or not to provide peacekeeping assistance and foreign aid Economic investors must decide whether or not to invest These strategies in turn have an effect on economic growth I support my theory through a multi method approach using a cross case analysis of all civil wars in the post World War II period as well as two case studies Chapters 1 and 2 review the literature and present a theory of post civil war economic growth Chapter 3 describes the research design and the data used in the project Chapter 4 presents the results of statistical tests of the theoretical model on all cases of civil war since World War II Chapter 5 tests the theory on the case of the Biafra War in Nigeria Chapter 6 tests the theory on the case of Mozambican Civil War Chapter 7 presents the overall conclusions of the project

In some sort of taken by monitors and the ceaseless chatter of fast conversation, the melodic beauty and psychological symphony produced by the published word often diminish in to the back ground, eclipsed by the persistent sound and distractions that permeate our lives.
