Starch Yasunori Nakamura, 2015-05-07 This book provides a detailed overview of the current understanding of the metabolic system of starch biosynthesis and degradation in plants. The focus is on new topics regarding the functional interaction between multiple enzymes and the initiation process of starch biosynthesis which are essential for further understanding of related metabolic features. The book also explains and discusses the distinct structures of amylopectin and amylose and the crystalline structure of starch granules. At the same time readers will be made aware of areas where further research remains to be done such as the regulation of starch metabolism, the fine structure of starch molecules and the manipulation of the structure and functional properties of starch by genetic and molecular technology. Also described are aspects of the biosynthetic machinery of starch, the structure and metabolism of which have developed and been refined during the process of plant evolution. In addition, recent approaches to producing novel starches with distinct physicochemical and functional properties in gene modified mutants and transgenic plants for industrial applications are introduced. Finally, the book elaborates on the unresolved topics, necessary approaches and future prospects to achieve a complete understanding of the regulation of starch metabolism. This volume is of great value for general scientists, students and anyone wishing to understand the specific and complicated events of starch metabolism and biotechnology. It will be especially useful for food scientists and engineers in academia and industry.

Mathematical Foundations of Computer Science 1999 Mirosław Kutylowski, Leszek Pacholski, Tomasz Wierzbicki, 2007-07-16 This volume contains papers selected for presentation during the 24th International Symposium on Mathematical Foundations of Computer Science held on September 6-10, 1999 in Szklarska Poręba, Poland. The symposium organized alternately in the Czech Republic, Slovakia and Poland focuses on theoretical aspects and mathematical foundations of computer science. The scientific program of the symposium consists of five invited talks given by Martin Dyer, Dexter Kozen, Giovanni Manzini, Sergio Rajsbaum and Mads Tofte and 37 accepted papers chosen out of 68 submissions. The volume contains all accepted contributed papers and three invited papers. The contributed papers have been selected for presentation based on their scientific quality, novelty and interest for the general audience of MFCS participants. Each paper has been reviewed by at least three independent referees: PC members and/or sub-referees appointed by them. The papers were selected for presentation during a fully electronic virtual meeting of the program committee on May 7, 1999. The virtual PC meeting was supported by software written by Artur Zgoda, Ph.D. student at the University of Wrocław. The entire communication and access to quite a sensitive database at PC headquarters in Wrocław was secured by cryptographic protocols based on technology of certificates.
