

CHM 142 General Chemistry II (Section 16130 Fall 2022 In-person)

Description

Students enrolled in this course should have good background from General Chemistry I or equivalent course. The course will follow the outline of the given textbook. We will cover chapters 11-19. At the end of this course you should have a representative understanding of some of the fundamental concepts in the chemical sciences. Based on the course objectives, the student will comprehend how chemistry is important and relevant in daily life. The student will demonstrate an understanding of how intermolecular forces influence the different states of matter, including solutions properties. The student will learn and apply the kinetics and thermodynamics principles, including entropy and free energy. The student will learn the electrochemistry. The student will demonstrate analytical and problem solving skills. Since this course is part of the flexible core of General Education, the students are expected to reach the following General Education goals:

1. Gather, interpret, and assess information from a variety of sources and points of view.
2. Evaluate evidence and arguments critically or analytically.
3. Produce well-reasoned written or oral arguments using evidence to support conclusions.
4. Identify and apply the fundamental concepts and methods of a discipline or interdisciplinary field exploring the scientific world, including, but not limited to: computer science, history of science, life and physical sciences, linguistics, logic, mathematics, psychology, statistics, and technology-related studies.
5. Demonstrate how tools of science, mathematics, technology, or formal analysis can be used to analyze problems and develop solutions.
6. Articulate and evaluate the empirical evidence supporting a scientific or formal theory.
