Realism and International Relations Jack Donnelly,2000-06-01 Realism and International Relations provides students with a critical yet sympathetic survey of political realism in international theory Using six paradigmatic theories Hans Morgenthau Kenneth Waltz the Prisoners Dilemma Thucydides Machiavelli and Hobbes the book examines realist accounts of human nature and state motivation international anarchy system structure and the balance of power international institutions and morality in foreign policy Donnelly argues that common realist propositions not only fail to stand up to scrutiny but are rejected by many leading realists as well He argues that rather than a general theory of international relations realism is best seen as a philosophical orientation or research program that emphasizes in an insightful yet one sided way the constraints imposed by individual and national egoism and international anarchy Containing chapter by chapter guides to further reading and discussion questions for students this book offers an accessible and lively survey of the dominant theory in International Relations

The Protestant Establishment Revisited Digby Baltzell,1999-01-01 In the latter half of the twentieth century The American upper class has become less like an aristocracy governing and guiding the nation and more like a caste a privileged and closed body whose contribution to national leadership has steadily declined This loss of power and authority has been the focus of the work of E Digby Baltzell whose 1964 work The Protestant Establishment analyzed the fate and function of a predominantly Anglo Saxon and Protestant upper class in an ethnically and religiously heterogeneous democracy After 27 years Baltzell s theory of the structure and function of the establishment remains unique in the literature of class stratification and authority Baltzell views an open and authoritative establishment as a necessary and desirable part of the process of securing responsible leaders in a democratic society Such an establishment is the product of upper class institutions that are open to talented individuals of varying ethnic and social backgrounds The values of upper class tradition include an aristocratic ethos emphasizing the duty to lead as opposed to the snobbish ethos of caste that emphasizes only the right to privilege Baltzell regards this as a protector of freedom in modern democratic societies guaranteeing rules of fair play in contests of power and opinion As Baltzell points out historically the alternatives to rule by establishments have been rule by functionaries and demagogues neither of which has proven satisfactory in protecting freedoms As against Marxists who see hegemony as a social evil Baltzell following Tocqueville sees it as necessary to the well being of society Hegemonic establishments give coherence to the social spheres of greatest contest They do not eliminate conflict but prevent it from ripping society apart Baltzell s work provides uncommon insight into the relationship of social class and personal power in contemporary America This book will be of interest to sociologists political scientists historians of urban life and American studies specialists
