An Introduction To The Objectivist Community:

An Introduction to the Objectivist Community James H. Yoke, 2002-02 Ayn Rand 1905-1982 who used the writings of Aristotle as a point of departure founded Objectivism. She in a number of brilliant books, speeches, and pamphlets created a completely rational philosophy. She has for the first time in history brought us a rational understanding of the universe and ourselves. Only within the last fifty years have we found the connections between the universe, our nature, reason, self-interest, ethics, and morality, esthetics, politics, and economics. Rand brought a clear understanding of the relationship of each to the other and in a truly rational system such as this, there are no contradictions in any of it. The purpose of this book is to briefly define the Objectivist Philosophy for the informed but non-academic reader and to outline the nature of a Community of the followers of Objectivism. The First Chapter presents the essential use of logic and reason, the nature and meaning of reality, Metaphysics, and the science of knowing, Epistemology. The Human Creature is the subject of Chapter Two. The body and mind of each of us is incredibly complex, but there are complex differences between the varying individuals. This chapter presents a clarifying overview of the nature of the human beings. For the first time in human history, Ayn Rand developed a rational ethic or morality based on the nature of man and his needs. Chapter Three reviews the values and virtues required for a person to survive in peace and justice and to find happiness. Esthetics. Chapter Four is the study of that which seems beautiful to us. The layman might think the subject unimportant, but every normal person reacts to a multitude of sights and sounds that make one feel good, great, or sometimes bad. What is the meaning of these feelings, and where do they come from? Considering all of the preceding chapters, Chapter Five outlines the only rational economic and political system appropriate for an Objectivist individual. The world population believes so much that is not so, and so little of that which is. Thus, education is both the essence of becoming and of living an Objectivist life. Chapter Six discusses some history, statistics, and proposals regarding education. To provide for the needs of Objectivist individuals, we propose a new institution in Chapter 7, The Objectivist Community. That institution will be the local vehicle, the intimate association of people, and the convenient physical plant where we Objectivists will learn and live the Objectivist way of life. It will be the place and offer the program to educate ourselves and our children. The Objectivist Community will offer a foundation from which we can launch an ever-expanding effort to create a more rational, more ethical, and more benign culture. Chapter Eight advocates that Objectivists proselytize. Chapter Nine offers some rituals and ceremonies: Weddings, Funerals, Christmas, and Thanksgiving Celebrations that Objectivists might use or adopt. This book is intended to be a first book on Objectivism, a person might buy, be given, or give.

Community and Political Thought Today Peter Lawler, Dale McConkey, 1998-09-30 There is a crisis in America revolving around social and political life and the contributors to this essay collection believe it has provoked a renewed attention to the issue of community in political thought The 14 essays approach the question of community and political thought from a variety of perspectives ranging from political philosophy to social theory All the essays however share the concern of the opening essay by Hertzke and McRorie about moral ecology or determining what is required for a vital and free social and political life and preserving it from erosion by individualism in its various forms Two of the essays by Jardine and Stier deal with understanding the communitarian impulse Three by Frohnen Stone and Woolfolk evaluate perhaps the first major contribution to the communitarian movement Habits of the Heart While McClay's chapter seeks to restore the connection between federalism and communitarianism Sharpe's essay connects the liberal communitarian debate to the classic works of de Tocqueville and Arendt Two essays by Knippenberg and Lawler criticize the quirky communitarianism of America's leading professor of philosophy Richard Rorty Lawler also criticizes Bloom for his similarity to Rorty joining Nichols in her discussion of Bloom's excessive debt to Rousseau McDaniel and Mahoney present unfashionable appreciations not without criticism of the achievement of Leo Strauss's illiberal if not exactly communitarian thought Finally Anderson discusses Raymond Aron's prudent opposition to the oxymoronic global community This is a unique and significant collection for all students and researchers interested in contemporary social and political thought

Provisional Avant-Gardes Sophie Seita, 2019-07-23 What would it mean to be avant garde today Arguing against the notion that the avant garde is dead or confined to historically failed movements this book offers a more dynamic and inclusive theory of avant gardes that accounts for how they work in our present Innovative in approach Provisional Avant Gardes focuses on the medium of the little magazine from early Dada experiments to feminist queer and digital publishing networks to understand avant gardes as provisional and heterogeneous communities Paying particular attention to neglected women writers artists and editors alongside more canonical figures it shows how the study of little magazines can change our views of literary and art history while shedding new light on individual careers By focusing on the avant garde's publishing history and group dynamics Sophie Seita also demonstrates a new methodology for writing about avant garde practice across time one that is applicable to other artistic and non artistic communities and that speaks to contemporary practitioners as much as scholars In the process she addresses fundamental questions about the intersections of aesthetic form and politics and about what we consider to be literature and art

Global Justice, Human Rights and the Modernization of International Law Riccardo Pisillo Mazzeschi, Pasquale De Sena, 2018-07-27 This book is based on the observation that international law is undergoing a process of change and modernization driven by many factors among which the affirmation and consolidation of the role of the individual and of the theory of human rights stand out In the contemporary world international law has demonstrated an ability to evolve rapidly But it is still unclear whether its modernization process is also producing structural changes which affect the subjects the sources and even the very purpose of this law Is it truly possible to speak of a paradigmatic and ideological change in the international legal system one that also involves a transition from a state centred international order to a human centred one and from inter state justice to global justice The book addresses three fundamental aspects of the modernization process of international law the possible widening of the concept of international community and of the classic assumptions of statehood the possible diversification of the sources of general international law and the ability of international law to adapt to new challenges and to achieve the main goals for humanity set by the United Nations The overall objective of the book is to provide the tools for a deeper understanding of the transition phase of contemporary international law by examining the major problems that characterize this phase The book will also stimulate critical reflection on the future prospects of international law The Objectivist, 1966 Myth and Memory in the Construction of Community Bo Stråth, 2000 Across and beyond Europe history is being rewritten in the wake of the Cold War's dissolution An example of this process is the re-evaluation of the part played by resistance movements during World War II in country after country This book deals with the role of myth and memory in the formation of collective identities with a particular emphasis on national identities Myth and memory should not be seen as clearly demarcated from history They are history in ceaseless transformation and reconstruction the image of the past is continuously reconsidered and reconstituted in the light of an everchanging present History is an interpretation of the past not the past as it really was The key question of this book concerns the role myth and memory play in the construction of communities and what the distinction between collective myth and memory signifies The discussion of this question is undertaken in theoretically oriented chapters as well as 15 case studies of national patterns from Scandinavia in the north to Italy and Israel in the south and from the USA in the west to Russia in the east as well as local community constructions in working class districts in Glasgow and Roubaix and the national politics of architecture in Berlin and Rome This book appears within the framework of a research project on the cultural construction of community in modernisation processes in comparison This project is a joint enterprise of the European University Institute in Florence and the Humboldt University in Berlin sponsored by the Bank of Sweden Tercentenary Fund Imagining Communities in Thailand Shigeharu Tanabe, 2008 This book explores newly emerging communities and the new practices knowledge and power relations that can no longer be explained adequately by the conventional conception of community In the early 1980s Benedict Anderson coined the term imagined communities to examine the creation and global spread of the nation state as a collective fiction constructed in the homogeneous and empty time of modernity Set against this conceptual background the present volume focuses on the processes of imaging communities to explore how people imagine and create their own sense of knowledge power and identity The essays in this volume consider the communal relations and properties of newly emerging or transforming communities associations and networks the imagined family in shaping the modern Thai nation state the Asoke community of a new Buddhist movement a Karen millenarian Buddhist community on the Thai Myanmar border networks of producers and sellers in the Night Bazaar of Chiang Mai female factory workers in Lamphun and HIV AIDS self help groups of northern Thailand Taken together these case studies demonstrate the possibilities of new communities in Thailand and provide a key reference for both students and scholars concerned with a critical approach to sociology history development studies Southeast Asian studies and anthropology The Role of Knowledge Communities in Constructing Asia-Pacific Security See Seng Tan, 2007 This study addresses the dearth of critical and or post positivist perspectives in security studies of and about the Asia Pacific region It demonstrates how regional communities of security specialists and intellectuals including knowledge communities

such as ASEAN Institutes of Strategic and International Studies ASEAN ISIS and the Council for Security Cooperation in the Asia Pacific CSCAP have contributed to just such a state centric political imaginary at the expense of alternative ideas while promoting and legitimizing their own identities as authorities on regional security Wawasan: Jurnal Ilmiah Agama dan Sosial Budaya, Vol. 4 No. 2 (2019), 2019-12-26 WAWASAN Jurnal Ilmiah Agama dan Sosial Budaya is a peer reviewed journal which is published by Ushuluddin Faculty UIN Sunan Gunung Djati Bandung incorporate with the scholars association Asosiasi Studi Agama Indonesia ASAI publishes biannually in June and December This Journal publishes current original research on religious studies and Islamic studies using an interdisciplinary perspective especially within Islamic Theology Ushuluddin studies and its related teachings resources Religious studies Islamic thought Islamic philosophy Quranic studies Hadith studies and Islamic mysticism WAWASAN Jurnal Ilmiah Agama dan Sosial Budaya published at first Vol 1 No 1 2016 biannually in January and July However since Vol 2 No 1 2017 the journal s publication schedule changed biannually in June and December Reviewers will review any submitted paper Review process employs a double blind review which means that both the reviewer and author identities are concealed from the reviewers and vice versa Objectivist Newsletter, 1966

Truth and Consequences Reed Way Dasenbrock, 2010-11-01 Contemporary literary theory takes truth and meaning to be dependent on shared conventions in a community of discourse and views authors intentions as irrelevant to interpretation This view argues Reed Way Dasenbrock owes much to Anglo American analytic philosophy as developed in the 1950s and 1960s by such thinkers as Austin and Kuhn but it ignores more recent work by philosophers like Davidson and Putnam who have mounted a counterattack on this earlier conventionalism This book draws on current analytic philosophy to resuscitate the notion of objective truth and intentionalist models of meaning and interpretation thereby moving beyond the antifoundationalism of postmodern theory It addresses the work of Rorty and Fish as representative of literary conventionalism discusses the futility of Derrida s anti intentionalism and shows how poststructuralist thinkers like Althusser and Foucault have contributed to the new thematics of race class gender and sexual orientation that dominates literary theory today Examining the counter arguments of conventionalists to have their theory judged by its consequences Dasenbrock shows how damaging this antiobjectivism and anti intentionalism have been for literary studies What is Education? James D.
