Best Practices In Trade Policy Reform:

Best Practices in Trade Policy Reform Vinod Thomas, John Nash, 1991 It was recognized by many developing countries in the 1980s that integration with the global economy is necessary for economic development and technological progress Efforts to liberalize trade were controversial A unique body of evidence on developing country trade liberalization will examine why outcomes have varied from one country to another The political economy of trade liberalization and the interaction among trade and domestic reform macro economic stability and export development is examined using a cross sectional data b country studies c and interviews The sequencing of reforms and implications for multilateral trade negotiations foreign direct investment and regional integration schemes is an additional consideration The emphasis is on practical problems economic and political and recommendations of how policies can be designed and implemented to yield stronger and more sustainable results Industrial and Trade Policy Reform in Developing Countries Ramesh Adhikari, Colin H. Kirkpatrick, John Weiss, 1992 Russian Trade Policy Reform for WTO Accession Harry G. Broadman, 1998-01-01 Russia has manifested considerable interest in accession to the World Trade Organization WTO This volume contains four policy papers that focus on the most prominent topics during the ongoing WTO accession process 1 the dispersion of Russia's tariff structure 2 trade and investment in the service sectors 3 the treatment of state trading enterprises and 4 the policy regime governing foreign direct investment Bringing the Russian Federation into the rules based WTO system is an objective broadly shared by the world community Accession to the WTO comes at a critical juncture for the Russian government to focus on many important policy issues to stimulate growth As part of the process of making liberalization commitments as required by the existing members of the WTO accession provides an opportunity to lock in reforms Trade Policy Reforms in Latin America M. Lengyel, V. Ventura-Dias, 2003-12-19 This volume examines the interaction between private and public institutions in the trade policy making process of eight Latin American countries and trade bargaining in sub regional hemispheric and multilateral fora Faced with expanding trade agendas diversifying negotiation fora and an uncertain global economy each country has found its own niche in regional integration and global insertion providing a wealth of idiosyncratic and convergent policies Trade Policy Reform UNDP-World Bank Trade Expansion Program, 1998 Based on 1995 final of the UNDP World Bank Trade Expansion Program Trade Policy Agenda and ... special interests I argue in this paper that neither of these caricatures is accurate and that there is much to be learned by undertaking systematic analytical studies of state capabilities how they are generated and why they differ across countries and issue areas Case studies of export subsidization in Korea Brazil Turkey India Kenya and Bolivia are presented to confront usual presumptions against actual experience Contrary to conventional wisdom the successful cases Korea and Brazil turn out to be ones in which the government exercised discretion and selectivity while the most uniform and non discretionary cases Kenya and Bolivia were clear failures The paradox is explained in terms of state autonomy and policy coherence
