The Texas Criminal Reports Texas. Court of Criminal Appeals,1920 A Dictionary of Sexual Language and Imagery in Shakespearean and Stuart Literature Gordon Williams,2001-09-13 Providing an alphabetical listing of sexual language and locution in 16th and 17th century English this book draws especially on the more immediate literary modes the theatre broadside ballads newsbooks and pamphlets The aim is to assist the reader of Shakespearean and Stuart literature to identify metaphors and elucidate meanings and more broadly to chart through illustrative quotation shifting and recurrent linguistic patterns Linguistic habit is closely bound up with the ideas and assumptions of a period and the figurative language of sexuality across this period is highly illuminating of socio cultural change as well as linguistic development Thus the entries offer as much to those concerned with social history and the history of ideas as to the reader of Shakespeare or Dryden

Experiments on the Nervous System with Opium and Metalline Substances Alexander Monro,2014-11-27 Example in this ebook When in November last I began to make Experiments on Animal Electricity of which I read some account to the Royal Society on the 3d of December I was not only much hurried with business but could not procure a sufficient number of Frogs for the purpose During the last winter and spring I prosecuted the subject more fully and with greater attention and on the third day of June I read a second paper to the Royal Society to which I have since that time made additions I shall now state a summary of the chief circumstances I have observed with a few Remarks OBSERVATIONS on the CIRCULATING and NERVOUS SYSTEMS of FROGS As my Experiments with Opium as well as those on Animal Electricity have been performed on Frogs chiefly I shall premise some observations on their Circulating and Nervous Systems Their Heart consists of one Auricle and one Ventricle only their Aorta supplying their Air Vesicles or Lungs as well as all their other Organs and of course their Ven Cav return the Blood from all parts to the Heart The Ventricle of their Heart contracts about sixty times in a minute and the purple colour of the Blood which is seen within it disappears after each contraction or the Blood is entirely expelled by its contraction For upwards of an hour after cutting out its Heart a Frog can crawl or jump and for upwards of half an hour longer it contracts its Legs when the Toes are hurt though not with sufficient force to move its Body from the place where it is laid Their Encephalon consists of Brain and Cerebellum each of which on its upper part is divided into two Hemispheres and below they are conjoined by thick Crura which form the Medulla Oblongata and Spinal Marrow both of which are proportionally larger than in Man and more evidently consist of two Cords There are nine true Vertebr and at the sixth of these the Spinal Marrow terminates in the Cauda Equina The Sciatic Nerves are formed by three pairs of Nerves sent out below the seventh eighth and ninth Vertebr and by one pair from the Os Sacrum A Nerve resembling our great Sympathetic Nerve passes downwards from the Abdomen into the Pelvis Two days after cutting off the Head of a Frog at its joining with the first Vertebra I found it sitting with its Legs drawn up in their usual posture and when its Toes were hurt it jumped with very considerable force Its Heart likewise continued to beat about forty times in a minute and so strongly as to empty itself and circulate the Blood In several Frogs after cutting off the back part of the six undermost true Vertebra I took out all that part of the Spinal Marrow with the Cauda Equina which they cover The lower Extremities were rendered insensible to common injuries and lay motionless yet the Frogs lived several months thereafter and the wounded parts of their Backs cicatrised and the Bones of their Legs which I fractured were re united the Blood circulating freely in their Vessels It is universally known that if after amputating the Limb of a warm blooded Animal we repeatedly irritate the Nerves which terminate in Muscles repeated Convulsions of the Muscles are for some time produced and that in Frogs and other cold blooded Animals the Nerves retain this power still longer But it has been commonly supposed that after irritating the Nerve a given number of times the effect ceases Authors conceiving that there is lodged in the Nerve some fluid or other energy which is exhausted by repeated explosions Instead of this I have found that the time the Nerves preserve their power is the same whether we irritate them or not or that their energy is not exhausted by irritation unless the irritation be such as sensibly alters their texture To be continue in this ebook
