Between Peril and Promise James R. Newby, Elizabeth Newby, 1984

Promise and Peril Anna Lännström, 2003

Promise and Peril delivers current analyses of the major religious conflicts in the world including eye opening assessments by leading academics and journalists of hot button issues such as fundamentalism the Israeli Palestinian conflict and the hostility between Pakistan and India This essential volume also turns its attention to religious threats such as the new Japanese religion Aum Shinrikyo which in 1995 unleashed the nerve gas sarin in a crowded Tokyo subway In her essay Karen Armstrong offers a clear understanding of what fundamentalism is and what it is not She contends that while fundamentalism is rarely violent the survivalist mentality of many fundamentalists can push them to become militant She gives a stunning account of the circumstances that changed Sayyid Qutb mentor to Osama Bin Laden and most other Sunni fundamentalists from moderate liberal to violent militant Marc Gopin demonstrates how promoting respect for Jewish and Muslim religious symbols and rituals can promote peace between Israel and Palestine He includes fascinating excerpts from his lengthy conversation with Yassir Arafat on this topic Other essays in the collection address topics such as nuclearization in South Asia moral paradoxes in Hinduism and the pros and cons of state religion partnership Contributors to this volume focus on the ambiguity of religion as both promise and peril They ask tough questions how do we prevent fundamentalism from turning violent How do we draw upon what is compassionate and good in religious belief to promote lasting peace in places such as the Middle East and Northern Ireland While each author has a different answer to these questions all hold out hope that by combating ignorance with dialogue and understanding religion may recognize its promise and diminish its peril

Tomorrow, the Peril and the Promise Singapore National Trades Union Congress. Secretary General, 1976 Critical Approaches to Security in Central Asia Edward Lemon, 2020-05-21 Central Asia remains on the periphery both spatially and in people's imaginations. When the region does attract international attention it is often related to security issues including terrorism, ethnic conflict, and drug trafficking. This book brings together leading specialists from a range of disciplines including geography, anthropology, sociology, and political science to discuss how citizens and governments within Central Asia think about and practise security. The authors explore how governments use fears of instability to bolster their rule and how securitized populations cope with and resist being labelled threats through strategies that are rarely associated with security, including marriage and changing their appearance. This collection examines a wide range of security issues including Islamic extremism, small arms, interethnic relations, and border regions. While coverage of the region often departs from preconceived notions of the region as dangerous, obscure, and volatile, the chapters in this book all place emphasis on the way local people understand security and harmony in their daily lives. This book will be of interest to students and researchers of Central Asian Studies as well as Security Studies and Political Science. The chapters were originally published in the journal Central Asian Survey. The Life and Death of John of Barneveld. -- John Lothrop Motley, 1874 High Impact & Experiential Learning as Enhancing Quality on Campus Jeffrey R. Breese, Kyle Keeler, Michael Clump, 2026-02-10 For years the American Association of Colleges and Universities (AACU) has called for colleges and universities to implement high impact practices (HIPs) or educational procedures that provide significant academic advantages to students. High Impact Experiential Learning as Enhancing Quality on Campus provides examples of such strategies from thirteen colleges and universities as they have been applied in the classroom and in service of each featured college and university's mission statement and quality enhancement plan. Each institution included in this collection has committed to some such project or initiative; in some cases, the commitment goes back multiple decades, and each reflects the diversity of contemporary higher education in the United States. Public and private, small and large, selective and open access, religiously affiliated and non-sectarian, are all included here. The institutions provide a variety of creative examples of implementing experiential learning and the myriad HIPs as identified by the AACU, including Capstone Courses and Projects, ePortfolios, First Year Seminars and Experiences, Service Learning, Community Based Learning, and Undergraduate Research. Each chapter is framed around the project's scope and significance, a clear expression of the purpose of the project, evidence of the institution's commitment and capacity for the effort, and how the project is aligned with stated goals and institutional priorities. Drawing from fields as broad as sociology, psychology, the humanities, and environmental sciences and studies, High Impact Experiential Learning as Enhancing Quality on Campus appeals to multiple classrooms and institutional goals. Given the expanded interest in experiential learning (HIPs) in higher education over the past two decades, this first of its kind collection offers a roadmap for faculty and administrators to implement the practices outlined in each chapter in service of students learning and their larger institutional goals
