Beatrice Chancy:

Beatrice Chancy George Elliott Clarke, 1999 Beatrice Chancy is set in 1801 in the Annapolis Valley of Nova Scotia Beatrice is the daughter of a black slave who was raped by her white master Raised in the master's house Beatrice is beautiful clever kind and cultured her father's prize possession Her declaration of love for a slave sparks tension that culminates in a monstrous act the rape of Beatrice by her own father From here violence begets violence until her father is killed and Beatrice is hanged for his death The passion and sorrow of Beatrice Chancy's story are matched only by the brilliance of the language used to express it For booksellers uncertain about shelving this with plays or poetry neither is apt Beatrice Chancy is a singular creative work that should be shelved under tour de force or must read Quill Quire Starred Review

No Mother, No Future Kailin Wright, 2026-02-20 No Mother No Future investigates how theatre and performance use pregnancy loss to represent a lost future Spanning the twentieth and twenty first centuries this book analyzes performances that challenge dominant cultural scripts linking motherhood with futurity and nationhood in Canada and the United States Combining intersectional feminism with theories of reproductive justice and reproductive futurity this work interrogates how pregnancy loss especially when experienced by those excluded from white heteronormative ideals of motherhood is often portrayed as a societal failure It examines reproductive loss not only as a dramatic device but also as a political reality shaped by systemic violence including slavery forced sterilization and child welfare policies that disproportionately target Indigenous and Black communities Through in depth analyses and original interviews with playwrights directors and actors this volume offers a critical framework for understanding how performance stages reproductive loss as a site of resistance As the first book length study of motherhood and reproduction in Canadian theatre it is essential reading for scholars and students in theatre performance studies feminist theory cultural studies and reproductive justice

On the Other Side(s) of 150 Linda M. Morra, Sarah Henzi, 2021-05-20 On the Other Side s of 150 explores the different literary historical and cultural legacies of Canada's sesquicentennial celebrations It asks vital questions about the ways that histories and stories have been suppressed and invites consideration about what happens once a commemorative moment has passed Like a Cubist painting this modality offers a critical strategy by which also to approach the volume as dismantling reassembling and re enacting existing commemorative tropes as offering multiple conditional and contingent viewpoints that unfold over time and as generating a broader although far from being comprehensive range of counter memorial performances The chapters in this volume are thus provisional interconnected and adaptive they offer critical assemblages by which to approach commemorative narratives or showcase lacunae therein by which to return to and intervene in ongoing readings of the past from the present moment and by which not necessarily to resolve but rather to understand the troubled and troubling narratives of the present moment Contributors propose that these preoccupations are not a means of turning away from present concerns but rather a means of grappling with how the past informs or is shaped to inform them and how such concerns are defined by immediate social contexts and networks

Why We Write H. Nigel Thomas, 2006 In this volume African Canadian novelists and poets discuss the complexities of the writing experience Most of the writers interviewed here are humanists i.e. they see their work as serious depictions of the human condition admit that their works are informed by an African Canadian ontology and adhere to the notion that their books must delight and instruct These interviews therefore are valuable additions to the creative process of the individual writers Apart from identifying how the writers geographical and social origins have influenced their work the questions deliberately avoid autobiography Instead these writers respond to the exigencies of craft the manipulations of publishers the criticism of readers and the absence of a clearly identifiable market for their works Interviewed in this volume Ayanna Black Austin Clarke George Elliott Clarke Wayne Compton Afua Cooper Bernadette Dyer Cecil Foster Claire Harris Lawrence Hill Nalo Hopkinson Suzette Mayr Pamela Mordecai M.
