Circle Farm:

The One Hundred Circle Farm Emmet Gowin, 2022-04-19 A powerful photographic survey of the impact of irrigation systems on the landscape of the United States In The One Hundred Circle Farm renowned photographer Emmet Gowin b 1941 presents stunning aerial images of center pivot irrigation systems in the western and midwestern United States This type of farming involves a method of watering crops in which equipment rotates around a centrally drilled well creating enormous distinct circles of irrigated land often in the midst of dry terrain Anyone who has taken a cross country flight has likely seen countless acres of these iconic symbols of industrial agriculture Through a faithful yet personal photographic survey Gowin s powerful images not only bear witness to the ambitions humans wield in shaping the landscape but also attest to how such primal elements circles pivots and lines symbolize water depletion and the fragile environment The stark photographic compositions more than one hundred in all were created over eight years Fields resemble lost civilizations crops gape like strange new suns Hauntingly beautiful the images highlight Earth s nourishing geology visual evidence of our labors Inscribed onto the earth these lines are reminders of the technology extracting unimaginable amounts of water that cannot be replaced and raise questions about what large scale irrigation must answer for when the water runs out With an afterword by anthropologist Lucas Bessire discussing the history and impact of pivot irrigation on American farming The One Hundred Circle Farm stands as a poetic visual record evidence of the tenuous connections between human enterprise and our planet s most precious resource Directory of Fertilizer Plants in the United States ,1992 Food, Farms, and

Community Lisa Chase, Vern Grubinger, 2014-12-02 Throughout the United States people are increasingly concerned about where their food comes from how it is produced and how its production affects individuals and their communities The answers to these questions reveal a complex web of interactions While large distant farms and multinational companies dominate at national and global levels innovative programs including farmers markets farm to school initiatives and agritourism are forging stronger connections between people and food at local and regional levels At all levels of the food system energy use climate change food safety and the maintenance of farmland for the future are critical considerations The need to understand food systems what they are who s involved and how they work or don t has never been greater Food Farms and Community Exploring Food Systems takes an in depth look at critical issues successful programs and challenges for improving food systems spanning a few miles to a few thousand miles Case studies that delve into the values that drive farmers food advocates and food entrepreneurs are interwoven with analysis supported by the latest research Examples of entrepreneurial farms and organizations working together to build sustainable food systems are relevant to the entire country and reveal results that are about much more than fresh food Duroc Swine Breeders' Journal ,1917
