Ethical Transformations for a Sustainable Future Olivier Urbain, Deva Temple, 2011-12-31 It has become increasingly apparent that humanity s complex social political and economic systems are incompatible with the finite capacity of the Earth to replenish resources and absorb wastes If the planet is to continue to be habitable for the myriad web of other creatures that make life possible humans must transform their systems so that they are aligned with natural systems One thing is sure it will not be Nature s laws the delicate interdependence that characterizes Earth's ecosystems that change. The change must begin within each person and from there permeate throughout our social, political, and economic structures. The contributors to this volume believe that such transformations are urgently needed and possible, and they offer specific examples. They suggest solutions that call for new perspectives in our ethics, beliefs, traditions, economy, business, gender relations, education, and technology. They show that human beings have the power to implement changes in all natural and social environments. The chapters in this book have been organized around three keywords: Reconnecting, Reframing, and Rethinking. The contributors argue that we need to reconnect with the Earth and nature, as well as with each other and parts of ourselves that we have ignored for too long. We need to reframe the way in which people prioritize choices in the economy, the way we do business, and pursue development, and we need to rethink the mission of education and the roles of technology.
