Coaching In The Classroom:

Coaching in the Classroom Linda L. Hopper Ph.D., 2024-08-18 Coaching has become mainstream in today's society. You can hire a coach for sports training, sorting out your finances, making career decisions, or in relationships. Why then don't we have more coaching in education? Linda Hopper took her 20 years of experience in business and coaching into the classroom to figure out how any teacher desiring more empowerment for students and teachers could become a teacher coach. Knowing that teachers have precious little time, Linda shares how she used Lesson Bites mini lessons in as little as 20 to 50 minutes a week to coach middle and high school students, integrating principles of positive psychology and social emotional learning. With a change in focus, teacher coaches empower students with the mindsets, tools, and strategies to design a more meaningful life of well-being, bringing more relevance to learning in the classroom. Despite being outdated, the education system today still uses a one-size-fits-all approach to learning that expects all students learn the same way and then evaluates progress only through standardized testing. The good news is that teachers have the power to mitigate this obsolete method. Through coaching, educators can help students and themselves design lives that bring more joy, a creative use of abilities and strengths, and greater freedom from stress. Linda Hopper PhD relies on over three decades of experience in business, education, coaching, and as a parent to share insights into how the empowerment method of coaching fits into education and why teachers need to coach emotions first, followed by information about the three key areas of personal development for students. Lesson Bites from her toolbox and other resources help educators coach students to attain better well-being. Through her guidance, teachers will learn how to shift their perspective and empower students with the mindsets, tools, and strategies to create a life of purpose and meaning while bringing more relevance to learning in the classroom. In this practical guide, an experienced educator, coach, and parent offers ways to bring a greater awareness of well-being into the classroom through coaching that benefits both teachers and students.

Instructional Coaching in Action Ellen B. Eisenberg, Bruce P. Eisenberg, Elliott A. Medrich, Ivan Charner, 2017-05-22 Unlike fix-it strategies that targeted teachers are likely to resist, educator-centered instructional coaching (ECIC) offers respectful coaching for professionals within their schoolwide community. Evidence-based results across all content areas, authentic practices for data collection and analysis, along with non-evaluative, confidential collaboration, offer a productive and promising path to teacher development. Coaches and teachers implement ECIC through a before-during-after (BDA) cycle that includes comprehensive planning between coach and teacher, classroom visitation, and data collection and debriefing and reflection. Drawing on their extensive experience with ECIC, authors Ellen B. Eisenberg, Bruce P. Eisenberg, Elliott A. Medrich, and Ivan Charner offer this detailed guidance for coaches and school leaders on how you and your school can create the conditions for an effective ECIC program. Get buy-in from teachers, clearly define the role of coach, roll out a coaching initiative, and ensure ongoing success with coaching. Filled with authentic advice from coaches, Instructional Coaching in Action provides valuable insight and demonstrates how educator-centered
