Communicative Language Teaching (CLT) Moritz Otten, 2021-09-23 Seminar paper from the year 2021 in the subject Pedagogy The Teacher Educational Leadership grade 1 0 University of Duisburg Essen language English abstract The main goal of this paper is to clarify and ask how important is the role of teachers in Communicative Language Teaching CLT To answer this question CLT is first defined After that the development of CLT will be looked at followed by the most important core assumptions Then it becomes more school specific and the influence of CLT on the EFL classroom will be analysed where two other teaching methods that have their origin in CLT will be introduced Foreign languages are an important topic in schools while especially the English language is foregrounded Learning the English language here in Germany is obligatory with the beginning of school life even though this might change in the near future As we all know the best way to learn a language is to speak it over and over again Because without communication and speaking the language you will never speak a language fluently no matter how well you master the individual grammatical rules Of course also the content of the language someone is learning is important Consequently the content needs to be adapted to the respective students and classes in order to prepare these people for mastering real life situations Following this there are several interesting methods of teaching second or foreign languages One of the most popular methods is called Communicative Language Teaching This method is mainly used when teachers try to teach second languages to students in a communicative way

Contexts of Competence Margie Berns, 2013-06-29 The introduction of communicative competence as the goal of second and for eign language teaching has led to recognition of the role of context in language learning and use As communicative competence is defined by the social and cultural contexts in which it is used no single communicative competence can serve as the goal and model for all learners This recognition has had an impact on program design and materials development One significant change is that the choice of a teaching method is no longer the primary concern Instead the first step for the program designer is becoming familiar with the social and cultural features of the context of the language being taught This includes a consideration of the uses speakers make of the language their reasons for using it and their attitudes toward it

Contexts of Competence Social and Cultural Considerations in Commu nicative Language Teaching explores the relationship between context and com petence from a theoretical and practical perspective Its audience is applied linguists in general and language teaching practitioners in particular The overall aim of its five chapters is to provide a framework for consideration of various contexts of language learning and use and to guide the implementation and development of models of communicative language teaching that are responsive to the context specific needs of learners

Interpreting Communicative Language Teaching Sandra J. Savignon, 2008-10-01 The emergence of English as a global language along with technological innovations and the growing need for learner autonomy is changing language teaching rapidly and profoundly. With these changes come new demands and challenges for teaching education programs. This authoritative collection of writings highlights some of the best work being done today in the United States and abroad to make communicative competence an attainable goal. The contributors examine what has come to be known as communicative language teaching or CLT from the perspectives of teachers and teacher educators. The book documents current reform initiatives in Japan, the United States, Hong Kong, Taiwan, and continental Europe to provide a global perspective on language teaching for communicative competence. Four major themes recur throughout the volume: the multifaceted nature of language teaching; the highly contextualized nature of CLT; the futility of defining a native speaker in the postcolonial/postmodern world; and the overwhelming influence of high-stakes tests on language teaching. The book is a useful and valuable tool for language teachers, teacher educators, and policymakers.

Storytelling and communicative language teaching Hasret Deliorman, 2009

Studienarbeit aus dem Jahr 2007 im Fachbereich Englisch Pädagogik Didaktik Sprachwissenschaft, Note 1,3, Johann Wolfgang Goethe Universität Frankfurt am Main, Institut für England- und Amerikastudien, Veranstaltung: The Secret Formula Sprache Deutsch. Abstract: Nowadays it is necessary to be able to speak English because this language is getting more and more important and it is the basis of international communication. So pupils have to learn as early as possible to have a strong command of this language and to use it effectively. Communicative language teaching (CLT) emphasizes communicative skills and wants communicative practice at the centre of classroom learning. According to Savignon, communicative competence is the central theoretical concept of CLT (2004). She defines this competence with the terms of expressions, interpretation, and negotiation of meaning. Hedge says that it is important for CLT to encourage pupils to communicate their needs, ideas, and opinions and also that they are able to operate effectively in the real world (2000: 44-45). She writes that in the communicative language classroom, pupils have to learn to use that language in certain settings and authentic situations. According to both authors, CLT helps to develop certain communicative skills and to come to terms with the language without any grave problems of expressing thoughts, wishes, opinions, etc. The language learner has to identify himself with that language so that he can apply his knowledge without any fear and uncertainty. And it is important that the teacher applies grammar-based exercises as an integral part of real-life tasks. Otherwise, the learners could get bored, deterred, or even overtaxed with grammatical units. Hedge claims too that a teacher's intervention to correct should be as minimal as possible (2000: 58). We can integrate grammatical units in activities where learners are supposed to talk about their next holiday plans and therefore they need to use several f Perspectives in Communicative Language Teaching Keith Johnson, Don Porter, 1983 FROM COMMUNICATIVE LANGUAGE TEACHING TO IMPROVE VOCABULARY ACHIEVEMENT: A Collection of Writings ISTIQOMAH P. RATU BANGSAWAN, 2020-04-16 In Indonesia where English is regarded as foreign language the teaching of this subject at most schools are still focused on the mastery of grammar and vocabulary Moreover the teaching and learning process is still using teacher centered approach Although there are four skills listening speaking reading and writing should be covered in the teaching of this subject but the fact some teachers are still reluctant teaching speaking into practice Therefore there is no improvement for both students who learn and teachers who teach and its application in the real world situation What students learn only what is printed on the books and practice it in front of the class The main problem usually comes from both teachers and students that they are non active speaking speakers But this can be solved by using Communicative Language Teaching Since the use of technology such as video television audiotapes the internet computer soft etc can come to aid of such teachers and yang students Using Communicative Language Teaching CLT will Help students to use the target language in an authentic and meaningful way MAKING COMMUNICATIVE LANGUAGE TEACHING HAPPEN James F.
