Modelling Interception and Transpiration at Monthly Time Steps Maria Margaretha de Groen,2026-02-20 The book presents improved equations for monthly water resources models in particular for interception and transpiration Most of the existing monthly models do not make a distinction between interception and transpiration while this distinction is very important for management purposes

Interception is direct feedback to the atmosphere important to sustain rainfall Transpiration is a good indicator for plant growth and biomass production This distinction also contributes to the estimation of recharge and therewith of runoff The derivations are based on the Markov theory for the occurrence of rain days The methodology can be used on the basis of an analysis of a few time series of daily data at a spatial scale of 300km and not necessarily of the same period as the monthly data Zimbabwe served as the case study but derived equations can be used worldwide as long as the relationship between the monthly rainfall and the mean number of rain days can be established
