

Composition Structures in Dance

103

Composition structures in dance refer to the different elements that choreographers use to structure a dance piece.

1. Beginning and ending:

The beginning of a dance sets the stage for the audience, introducing the movement style and tone of the piece. The ending is the final statement, leaving a lasting impression on the audience. Both should be clear, impactful, and memorable.

1. Repetition

Repetition is a common structure in dance that helps to create a sense of unity and build tension. It can be used in various ways, such as repeating a specific movement phrase or the same sequence of movements with variations.

2. Stillness

Stillness in dance can add a powerful contrast to movement, emphasizing the impact of movement and creating a sense of drama. This structure can be used to pause the movement or create iconic images that the audience will remember.

3. Transitions

Transitions are the linking sections between movements and are an important aspect of composition. A smooth and seamless flow of movement through transitions can make the dance look effortless while abrupt transitions can create a sense of surprise or tension.

4. Unity

Unity in dance refers to when all dancers simultaneously perform the same movement, creating unity and cohesion. This structure can be used to create a strong impact, emphasize the rhythm of the music, or connect with the audience when the dancers are moving independently.

5. Contrast

Contrast is a structure in which a sequence of movements is specifically used to create a sense of tension or drama. This structure can be used to create a sense of tension or drama, such as a sequence of unity.
